

SECTION XII.

The Homa called As'vastomíya, in which the fat of the horse is offered between the S'aríra and the S'vishtakṛit homas, and the Homa with two-footed verses.

1.—The homa ordained,	695
2.—The article necessary for the homa—the fat of the horse,				ib.
3.—The offering to be made thirty-six times,		696
4.—Praise of the number thirty-six,		ib.
5.—Homa with verses with two feet,		ib.
6.—The question whether the as'vastomíya or the offering with two-footed verses should have the precedence determined,	697
7.—The latter to follow the fat and other offerings,			...	ib.

SECTION XIII.

Ishtī ceremonies to be performed for a year before commencing the horse sacrifice.

1.—Anecdote on the origin of the Ishtī,	698
2.—The presiding divinity of the Ishtī,...	ib.
3.—Praise of the Sáyandhṛiti or evening homa which makes the horse halt in the evening,	698
4.—The advantages of the morning and the evening Ishtīs,...			699
5.—The advantages of the morning Ishtī,	700
6.—The advantages of the Ishtī at different times,		...	ib.

SECTION XIV.

Songs appropriate for the Ishtīs.

1.—Two Bráhmans to sing songs with the aid of the instrument called the Viná,	700
2.—It is preferable that one of the two songsters should be a Bráhmaṇ, and the other a Kshatríya,		701
3.—The time of singing,	ib.